*Principal S.S. Prince

Guru Granth contains such words of wisdom,
As can purify the human soul,
Falsehood, deceit and hypocrisy,
Four pious life, have no role.

Lust, anger, greed attachment and ego,
These five are our fiercest foes,
They rob us of our joys and bliss,
They plunge us into pains and woes.

Love, compassion, sympathy and piety,
Are hidden in fourteen-thirty pages,
Sermons of six saintly Gurus,
And thirty six respectable sages.

Sikhs all over this vast world,
Consider Guru Granth Sahib as their guide,
They are both saints and soldiers,
Their fame has spread far and wide.

When a Sikh is racked with pain,
Granth grants him a sense of joy,
When a Sikh is poor and penniless,
Granth becomes his priceless treasure.
A Sikh always marches ahead,
His mental make-up knows no retreat,
He is a victor par excellence,
All odds of life he can meet.

Meditation is his weapon sharp,
He earns his living by the sweat of brow,
He shares his earnings with his fellowmen,
The plants of piety he does grow.

He honestly follows, what Guru says,
He shuns all wickedness and vice,
To uphold the cause of righteousness,
He can pay the heaviest price.

Sikhs living in every part of the world,
Four hundredth anniversary celebrate,
They should pledge to be spotless men,
Sufferings of humanity they should mitigate.
